

Let's explore with our voices!

What sound does a blue jay make? Make all the sounds of the animals below. You are making music!

For more fun, identify the animal's color, the first letter of each animal, or imitate the way the animal moves.

Why is vocal exploration important? Vocal exploration helps children find their singing voices and learn how to better control them. It is a vital part of early childhood music-making.
